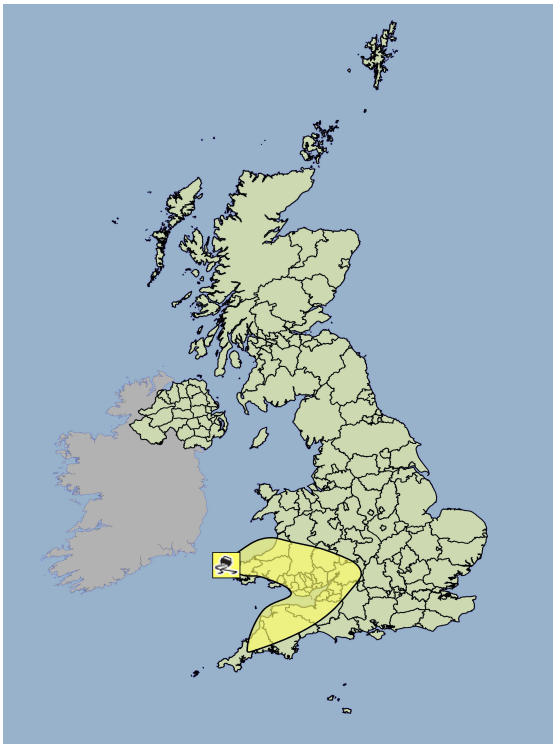
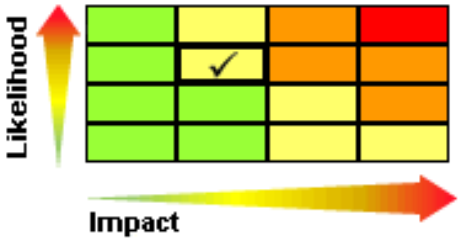
National Severe Weather Warning Service





Chief Forecasters Assessment
With prolonged clear skies in this cold airstream surface temperatures are expected to fall below freezing. Showers are expected to continue into the early hours of New Years Day and may result in temporary treatment wash off. Please be aware of the potential for icy patches to form on untreated surfaces.

The Met Office have issued a Yellow Warning of Ice

Valid from 22:00 on Thu, 31st Dec 2015 until 07:00 on Fri, 01st Jan 2016

Showers are expected to continue to affect the area through this evening and into the early hours of New Years Day. With surface temperatures already close to freezing and expected to fall further in the next few hours, there is a risk of icy patches forming on untreated roads and pavements.

Please be aware of these wintry hazards.
